CONEY FIVE-CENT BILL IN SENATE, SURE OF PASSAGE

Taken From Railroad Committee and Advanced to Final Reading.

M'CARREN OPPOSES IT.

Agnew Also Against Measure. With B. R. T. Agents Hustling.

Special from a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.) ALBANY, April 21 .- The most subtors, unexpected victory won in the Legislature this session was credited to The Evening World last night when by vote of 29 to 18 the Senate discharged its Railroad Commission from furtner consideration of the Five-Cent Coney Island Fare bill. The friends of that measure, some of them converted after a campaign which they will not forget in a long time, also succeeded in advancing it to third reading. With ordinary luck and watchfulness on the part of the promoters of the bill, it should pass not later than Wednesday and be in the hands of the Governor when the Legislature finally adjourns on Thursday.

That the agents of the B. R. T. and their corporation sympathizers will make a desperate effort to defeat the bill on final passage there is no doubt They will carry their battle to any extremity and resort to any trickery to defeat it. But the chances are that in the face of the vote last night they M'Carren and Agnew Oppose It. The debate on the motion made by Senator "The" McManus, who along with Senators McCall and Owens saw a light through the columns of The Evening World, after they had assisted in the defeat of the measure last year, was one of the most notable of the session. The vote that followed was no less significant and instructive.

The only Senators from the metropolitan district who voted against the measure were Agnew, the author of the race-track reform bills, and Me-Carren Agnew was the only man from Manhattan Island who voted against the measure. McCarren's vote did not cause any surprise, although he was the only Senator from Long Island to oppose it. The vote in detail was as

For the bill-Ackroyd, Cohalan, Cuis len, Frawley, Fuller, Harte, Hasenflug, Grady, McCall, McManus, Munaney, Owens, Sohmer, Sullivan, Taylor and Thompson, Democrats; and Burr, Emerson, Foelker, Gilchrist, Grattan, Hancock, Hooker, Knapp, O'Nell, Page, Saxe, Travis and Wemple, Republicans

Against the bill-Agnew, Alids, Arm strong. Carpenter, Cassidy, Cobb. Corder. Dunn, Fancher, Gates, Hill, Hinman, Raines, Tully, White and Wilcox, Hepublicans; and Boyce, McCarren and Rampserger, Democrats-18. McManus Leads Fight.

In moving the discharge of the Rail road Committee, McManus frankly admitted that he had made a mistake last year in opposing the bill. He said that to show his good faith ne would not move the progress of his own out, designed to accomplish the same purpose, but the bill passed by the Assembly and bearing the name of the Railroad Committee of that body. He said the bill as originally framed had borne the name of Assemblyman Wagner, but the Republican majority had adopted it as its own with the consent of Mr. Wagner.

McCall and Owens in Line.

McCall and Owens in Line.

Senator McCall seconded the motion made by McManus and Senator Owens put himself squarely in line for it by expressing his satisfaction with the proposition to pass the Republican committee bill instead of that introduced by him.

The cause of the measure was championed on the Republican side by Senator Gilchrist, of Kings, who not only made a strong argument in favor of it, but who secured several votes by moving, around among the up-State Senators. Senators Travis, Saxe and Fuller also spoke in favor of the motion to discharge the committee, and Senator Page urged several of his Republican colleagues to vote for it.

Agnew took no part in the debate, nor did he seek to enlist the support of any of the Republican Senators. He merely voted "no" when his name was called.

Wilcox, chairman of the Railroads Committee, all power take its place on the wilcox, chairman of the Railroads Committee, opposed the motion. The bill will now take its place on the third reading calendar of the Senate and may be progressed by unanimous consent if it is found it cannot be reached before final adjournment in the regular order of things.

Wagner Much Pleased. Senator McManus will probably give notice to-day of a motion to be made on Wednesday to suspend the rules, so the bill can dodge the ordinary technical obstacles and be put on final passage by a majority vote. If it is found that the bill cannot come out in the open McManus, Glichrist, Owens, McCall and Travis and Assemblyman

Wagner will ask the Governor for an TAFT TABLED; 738 TO 25 Wagner will ask the Governor for an emergency message.

"I am very man a gratified at the action of the Senate, and I hope the friends of the measure there will not lose sight of it until it is safely in the hands of the Governor.

"I am naturally very much concerned in having the bill passed! I feel my two years fight for it has not been in vain. I should have liked, of course, to have the bill bear my name. But rather than feopardize it in the slightest degree I consented to surrender my personal claim and permit the Republican majority to assume the credit for it. I know the people of New York understand the situation thoroughts, and that they will give the proper credit to whom result is due. I think Senators McManus, McCall and Owens seredit to whom credit is due. I think Senators McManus, McCall and Owens also deserve a great deal of credit for surrendering their claims to the author ship of the bills introduced by them, and in lining up in support of the Assembly bill." MAX SHINBORN GRABBED
